	Ticket validity: for fully unused tickets up to 12 months from the commencement of the original trip and for partially used tickets subject to the maximum stay allowed by the fare. Consider that all date changes that imply a change in the "type of passenger" (e.g. INF to CHD) will also imply the charging of applicable fare differences. Flexibilities include customers who decide not to travel or are affected by border restrictions/emergency situations for traveling to certain countries. Check latam.com for details on entry restrictions per country. This information is posted as reference only. Please check current restrictions with the relevant embassy/consulate.

Customers at destination (trip already commenced) who, due to the operation reduction, are not eligible for protection to comply with the maximum stay allowed by the fare, may reschedule their flight up to 12 months from trip commencement (according to the conditions mentioned), even if the change exceeds the maximum stay allowed by the fare.

- Cancellations for No-Show on flights departing from Europe are prohibited. If a customer advises up to 24 hours after flight departure, the ticket may be changed subject to cabin availability (without fare difference fees, provided the origin/destination are maintained). If the customer advises later than 24 hours, travel will be permitted without penalty but subject to fare differences.

Important:

- Changes of date/flight/rerouting involves adding, changing or removing connecting points while keeping the same origin/destination
- Change of origin or destination means flying to/from a city different than the one printed on the original flight coupon
- Ancillaries associated to the ticket are subject to changes and/or refund depending on the action taken with the ticket.
